Daisy Soren has the perfect life.

As the only child of doting parents, she lives in a beautiful palace that sits at the centre of a grand kingdom over which her father, King Soren, rules.

She is thirteen years old and has been coddled and protected all her life. Never has she known hardship or hunger, and never has she had to do anything that she did not want to do until, on one summer's day, her mother comes to her with the news that she is to be married.

As the reasons for her impending nuptials become apparent, Daisy sets off on a quest to find her freedom and avert a war which could destroy the kingdom and put an end to the peaceful legacy her father had fought so hard to forge.

She is joined on her quest by a flying horse, a pair of tattooed strangers who can see the future and a man who, possibly, holds the keys to victory within himself.
