The High Life: An Insider's View: San Francisco Characters of the 60's and 70's Michael Berger

The High Life is Mike Berger's vivid, first-person account of some of San Francisco's most famous characters from the 60's and 70's. The stories include his legal colleagues Nate Cohn, Jim MacInnis, Pat (Butch) Hallinan and some of their clients, including Sally Stanford, Mel Belli and the People's Temple Survivors. The major thread throughout his humorous anecdotes and reminiscences is Berger's 40-year devotion to the Delancey Street Foundation and his intimate friendship with founders John Maher and Mimi Silbert. As their first lawyer and a founding member of the Board, he is justifiably proud of the nation's most successful and respected residential drug rehabilitation facility.
